7
Gentlemen, we are gathered with a single purpose: the defeat of Israel.
Many before us have tried and failed. Now, at last, our adversary has given us an opening.
Our experts propose an inversion: if Israel will not support Torah study and Torah scholars, Arab patrons will.
Then, we claim, the merit of that Torah study will accrue to us rather than them.
This, gentlemen, is the spiritual power by which we shall defeat Israel. Blessed be Allah!

8
We have long believed that Torah study was the source of their spiritual protection.
Now their own government raids yeshivot, arrests scholars, and pressures them into military service.
It has also cut financial support to scholars and their families.

1
The delegates rose as one and demanded immediate action.

2
Recruiters were hired to contact heads of yeshivot with offers of support—and even refuge if they wished to relocate.

3
Soon, rival delegations appeared at the same yeshiva door.

4
Each tried to outbid the others.

5
The offer for every student and family climbed by the minute.

6
Netanyahu called an emergency meeting about the spreading phenomenon.

7
In this fictional satire, security officials recommend ending the conscription drive.

8
Opponents of a new Torah-study bill were booed from the chamber, and the justice minister was abruptly shown the door.
